Thursday, December 19. 1717.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Dec. 18.

Naples, November 16.

THE Viceroy continues his Care for putting the Troops of this Kingdom into a Condition of serving where there shall be Occasion, and for sending Recruits to Hungary. By the last Reviews that have been made, it is found there will want at least 700 Horses to remount the Cavalry, and the two Regiments of Dragoons. And in Order to have them the more easily, the Presidents or Governours of Provinces are order'd to assemble as many of them as they can, and the Officers will go thither to chuse the best. The Order that had been given for sending four Gallies of our Squadron, to carry Corn to the Ports on the Coast of Tuscany, is revok'd. Four hundred Germans, and as many Recruits, are gone by Land to Manfredonia, where they are to embark and pass to Hungary, thro' the Countries upon the Adriatick Sea, subject to the House of Austria. It was propos'd to establish some new Impositions for providing for the publick Expences, but upon an Examination; it was rather thought proper to retrench for a Year or two all the Pensions, which amount to a great Sum. An Order is come from Vienna, whereby all those who have obtained of the Emperour the Title of Grandees of Spain, are obliged to take out their Patents, and pay for them 6000 Ducats in 40 Days Time, in Failure whereof, the Royal Schedules or Letters in Form of Brevet are declared void, and their Estates shall be liable to Sequestration for the same. 'Tis hoped to raise a good Sum of Money by this Tax, without burdening the People.

Rome, Nov. 23. On the 17th of this Month, an Extraordinary Congregation of Cardinals which was held the Day before, upon the Affairs of Germany was continued, and it lasted so long that the Pope gave no Audience to his Ministers. The 21st, the Pope gave a long Audience to the Ambassadors of Portugal, and express'd to him an extraordinary Satisfaction in the powerful Succours the King of Portugal sent last Summer against the Enemy of the Christian Name. And in Consideration thereof, his Holiness has granted a new Bull, to augment the Privileges of the new Patriarch of Lisbon, and extend his Jurisdiction over part of the Bishopricks, & Sagans of the Archbishoprick. 'Tis hoped by this means to terminate the Difficulties that are found in the Execution of this new Establishment, occasion'd by the Opposition of a considerable part of the Clergy of Portugal, who have deputed the Bishop of Gardia to come hither, to represent the Reasons they have to oppose the disunion of the Church of Lisbon, in prejudice of that of Braga, which was formerly Metropolitan of the greatest part of Spain, and to set forth the Consequences of this Novelty. On the 22d at Night, a Courier from Sardignia arriv'd with Advice of the Reduction of that Island to the Obedience of the King of Spain.

From the Hague Courant, dated Dec. 20.

Madrid, Nov. 29. Last Week the British Minister Mr. Bubb had Audience of Leave of his Majesty, in Order to return to England. 'Tis hoped that the Express who was sent from hence to Rome, to obtain a Bull in Behalf of Cardinal Alberoni, for the Bishoprick of Malaga, will be overtaken at Genoa, in Order to bring in its Stead a Bull for the Archbishoprick of Sevil, for the said Cardinal.

Lisbon, Nov. 30. The young Count d'Atalaja, who lately wounded one of the Domesticks of Mr. Worsely, Envoy of the King of Great-Britain, has been oblig'd by Order of the King, to ask Pardon of the said Envoy, upon his Knees. And 'tis assur'd his Majesty has declar'd, that in case that Domestick of his Excellency happens to die of the Wound, it will cost the Count his Head.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Dec. 22.

Vienna, Dec. 8. The Turks flatter themselves that there are more Christian Potentates than Spain and Italy, that look upon the Emperour's encrease of Power with jealous Eyes; and there are Christian Ennemies enough in Turkey, who possess the Infidels with these Thoughts, to induce them to carry on the War; which gives our Court some Uneasiness. The Emperour intends himself to put on the Hat lately brought from Rome upon the Head of the new Cardinal Czacki.

From the Hague Courant, dated Dec. 22.

Brussels, Dec. 20. The Members of the Great Council of this City, are again called together by the Magistrates, upon the Subject of continuing the Impost; upon which they have not yet been able to come to any Resolution therein, there is Reason to hope they will comply with it in the End. We expect suddenly the young Rhinegrave from Vienna, his Palace being prepar'd for him; but 'tis now said, that the intended Journey of Prince Eugene hither, does not go on. The Count de Volkra having been detain'd by some Business of Importance, is not yet gone for Vienna, but he will depart to Morrow or next Day. All the Letters from Spain unanimously say, that that Court seems more than ever dispos'd to carry on the War, but that the Spanish Ministers are very much put to it to find out Funds for raising the Money that it requires; the Sea Service especially being extremely expensive to them. They write from Dunkirk the 14th, that a Swedish Privateer of 300 Ton, being arriv'd there with a Prize, both the Ships were arrested.

Paris, Dec. 18. The following Ordonnances of the King have been lately publish'd, viz.

An Ordonnance forbidding all his Majesty's Subjects to go in Pilgrimage to Foreign Countries, under the Penalties therein contain'd. Wherein it is set forth, That his Majesty having caused the Declarations

An Ordinance of his Majesty, forbidding Assemblies for Gaming. Wherein it is set forth, That the Licentiousness of Gaming is become too excessive and so general, that it disturbs the Publick Tranquility, and causes an almost general Disorder in all Conditions of People, &c. His Majesty therefore most expressly forbids all Persons of whatsoever Dignity, Quality, or Condition they may be, to hold any Assemblies for Gaming, or to furnish that in the Houses they possess or protect, or upon the Gate whereof their Names are written, even in these Houses which have for Inscription the Names of the Prince, or Princesses of the Royal Family, any such Assembly be held upon any Pretence whatsoever, or by Favour of any pretended Privilege whatsoever, as also, to have a Guard at their Gates without his Majesty's Permission, to print or distribute in Paris Bills of Invitation, to hang out Lights from their Houses, or make other Distinctions to draw in Company, &c. and all Others are commanded to cause this his Majesty's Command to be duly ob'y'd, &c.
